Judge Moore Decides in Favor of Brooklyn's Mayor.

He May Examine and Copy the Grand Jury Secrets.

If He Takes the Responsibility May Publish Them.

After taking six days to consider the Boody's application for permission to a brief illness, of Bright's disease. examine and copy the minutes of the June Grand Jury, which in its present-ten days ago while on his way home. her home, 40 Grange street, this morning, ment charged him with malfeasance in The attending physician had hoped for "I am not a millionaire," Mrs. Beecher been made, nor will there be until the Mayor's lawyer and the District-Attorney get together and decide upon its language. That may take several days, and then the minutes will be

The Mayor himself, however, must take the responsibility of making them public, as the Judge distinctly points out that no application to that effect had been made to him.

If the public labors under the impression, however, that it is going to find out all that transpired in the Grand Jury room, it is very much mistaken. Nothing whatever will be given out save the evidence itself-that is, the 'legal' evidence as defined by the District-Attorney.

"Nothing," said Judge Moore, "that anybody testified they had heard will be given out, nor will the sayings or doings of any one, nor the opinion of anybody as expressed in the Grand Jury room be given out; nothing but the testimony

It will be seen from this that not even District-Attorney Ridgway's inter-pretation of the law, which the Grand Jurors in their presentment said prevented them from sinding indictments, becomes public property. Neither will there be any description of the scene of pandemonium which took place when Lawyer Gaynor refused to answer the questions of Assistant District-Attorney Callaghan.

"If the Mayor," said Judge Moore "has, while in office, been guilty of any offense to warrant such a presentment the public at large has a right to know "It is a question, in fact, that con cerns the whole community much more then the individual. If the Mayor is a criminal, as charged, the public must know the extent of his crimes, and he shall be punished accordingly.

"It is true," he went on, "that in this that the Mayor, when making the application was not in the position of an ordinary defendant before this court. But the charges made, it must be remembered, are of the gravest character, and much publication has been given to them. It is right that he should be entitled to prove their faisity, if they are false. I have no doubt whatever as to elegate the state of th false. I have no doubt whatever as to my powers in this matter, and have therefore, no hesitation in reaching the conclusion that the application should be granted.

"I vant it clearly understood, how ever, that while he is at liberty to in spect the minutes he must copy noth-ing but the testimony, nor shall he take made to find indictments against the the night of July 13. Hegerdon and The n Mayor and the "Cold Thirteen" Alder-Mayor and the "Cold Thirteen" Aldermen. This illusion, however, has beer dispelled, and the public must look else where for the whole story.

This may come much sooner than the interested parties may expect. There are several Grand Jurors who are anx four to complete the chain of circumstantial as well as alleged direct evi dence, and to supply missing links here and there. It is contended that Judge Moore's decision removes all pledges of secrecy, and that every Grand Juror will now be at liberty to talk as much as he pleases. Judge Moore also stated that he had never heard a case in which there was so much provocation for the Mayor's application as well as such goo grounds for granting it.

and, it is alleged that a large sum of money was not accounted for. Gov. Price claimed the persons to whom he gave the power of attorney had misappropriated the funds of the estate, if there had been any misappropriation. Subsequently Congress passed a bill, rejaying to Gov. Price money which he had loaned the Government. Mrs. Forest, as executrix of the estate, obtained an order restraining ex-Gov. Price from drawing any part of this money from the Government until he had liquidated the claim against the Forest estate. He did not comply with this order, and the contempt proceedings followed. counsel for Mrs. Forest, said the original judgment or claim was confessed in 1857, and that all these years the estate had been deprived of the use of that money and the interest of it. Counsel said the Court knew the defendant had property, and that Mrs. Forest was an aged widow with seven children detending on her for support, and that she had to teach school to take care of herself and children.

Mr. Parker said that the 129,000 bail money and 110,000 added to it would not ray back all the defendant owes the estate. He strongly opposed the ball bond being reduced.
